

RESOURCES

For Keeping a Healthy Flock

BY MELISSA MILLER
@WILMATHEWONDERHEN

WILMA'S RECOMMENDATIONS

I'm not a veterinarian nor a medical professional, but I do have many years of experience in caring for chickens. I believe in science-based care for my flock.

Take this as a guide and always do your own research. It's YOUR flock, so you get to decide. Please take the time to research the needs of your feathered friends.

BOOKS

- » The Chicken Health Handbook
~ Gail Damerow
<https://amzn.to/2VrP7xL>
- » The Chicken Chick's Guide To backyard chickens: Simple Step's for Healthy, Happy Hens
~Kathy Shea Mormino
<https://amzn.to/3jvudph>

ONLINE

- » USDA
- » Merck Manual Veterinary Manual
- » Poultry DVM
- » Association of Avian Veterinarians
- » American Poultry Association
- » The Chicken Chick
- » Livestock Conservancy

LOCAL

- » Contact your local Agricultural extension Office.
- » Reach out to your local community college or university. A lot of times they offer free online classes for basic care.
- » 4H clubs
- » Ask someone in your area that has chickens for local resources and veterinarian recommendations.
- » Please seek out a veterinarian in your area BEFORE an emergency. JUST IN CASE.